

Applied Corporate Finance

MA ECON AM FIE ACORPPFIN

Content and learning outcome

Content This course focuses on the application of valuation techniques to assist in making corporate finance decisions including investment choice and financing choice. We then build on these insights to examine particular issues facing corporate managers, investors, and entrepreneurs, such as IPO and M&A. The lectures are complemented with case studies, classroom discussion of selected real-life events, and academic paper discussions.

Learning outcome Students gain hands on experience with implementing a pro-forma accounting statement, cash flow forecasts, and valuation. Students learn to analyze real-life business cases and combine quantitative and qualitative analysis to make corporate decisions. The students will be able to stay up to date with state-of-the-art development in the literature on corporate finance by reading academic papers.
